FASCIST GROUP USES STONES IN LATEST ATTACK

Windows Broken In Office Of Catholic Publishing House

PORTRAIT OF POPE PIUS IS TRAMPLED

Many Copies of 'Il Papa' and Vatican Newspaper Burned

ROME, May 27, (AP)—Continuing attacks which observers believed might lead to a serious rift between the Vatican and the Italian government, Fascist students Wednesday night stoned the offices of the Catholic publishing house Civilta Cattolica.

After breaking many windows with stones the students rushed into the offices and threw copies of the book "Il Papa."—(the Pope), from the windows.

Trample Portrait of Pope

Then taking an oil portrait of Pope Pius XI, from the wall, the students carried it to the street, brandished it, and cried "Here is a traitor to his country." Throwing the picture to the cobblestones of the street, they trampled upon it.

Afterward piles of the books which were heaved from the windows were taken to the Piazza Colonna, flanking the foreign office, where they were burned, together with a large number of copies of the Vatican newspaper, "Osservatore Romano."

No Police Hindrance

The march upon the Catholic publishing house was made without police hindrance. Police dispersed the group at the Piazza Colonno, however, after which the students assembled in smaller groups and continued to parade the streets singing the Fascist hymn and shouting remarks directed against the church.

In government circles it was said unofficially the controversy between the student groups was not entirely unwelcomed because it was held to be an evidence that the Facist were ready to combat what they consider a political trend by Catholic organizations.

In Vatican circles the contention was maintained that by their alleged interference in Catholic activity the Fascists were violating the spirit of the Lateran treaty and the Concordat.

Some diplomatic tension, it was learned, has existed for three months between the Vatican and the government.

Discounts Powers Of Television For Usage In Homes

TOPEKA, May 27, (AP)—A popular belief that television will enable persons to see and talk to others at distant points was discounted Wednesday by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of radio corporation of American.

"The public" he said in an interview, "has a misconception of radio. They think they're going to be able to sit in the luxury in their homes and see the persons they're talking to, or the wonderful things they're hearing now.

Few Stations

"But television won't be like that. Probably there will be only a few powerful stations broadcasting television, and what the public will see—at first at least—will be a single head with whiskers—a fuzzy outline.

"Perhaps there will be a single performer on a stage, or a small group. Possibly the broadcasts eventually will include such things as football games."

General Harbord said he was informed television sets would not be available for general use for a year and a half or possibly two years.

The Work Of Rioting Prisoners

DANGER OF BOOST IN TAXES WANES; MELLON SCORED

Pat Harrison Declares Against Any Increase At This Time

WASHINGTON, May 27, (AP)—Chances of a tax increase at the next session of congress lessened considerably Wednesday when Senator Harrison of Mississippi, the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, declared against any such legislation.

The Mississippi senator assailed Secretary Mellon for talking about tax revision and called upon the administration to pare down expenditures and to slow up debt retirement during the period of depression.

Issue Securities

Senator Harrison proposed that the treasury bridge the prospective $900,000,000 deficit this year with an issue of short term securities and curtail payments on the public debt for a while, saying the debt retirement program is seven years ahead of schedule.

"I am against a tax increase at this time," he announced. "The American people are in no position to pay increased taxes and it is not the time for congress to try to formulate a permanent tax policy.

"In Terrible Plight"

"Our country is in a terrible plight and everyone, without respect to political affiliations, ought to do what he can toward restoring confidence so that business can get on its feet and normalcy prevail. I can't understand how Mr. Mellon can direct criticism at congress for reducing taxes too much and give the impression that there ought to be a tax revision program that would increase the taxes on millions now paying and on many more not now paying levies. Such utterances from him as the spokesman of the administration frightens business and checks the restoration of confidence.

"Mr. Mellon and the republican administration have from year to year and over the protest of congress gouged the American taxpayers in excessive tax requirements over and above those necessary for the operation of the government and the replenishment of the sinking fund by a total of $3,500,000,000. They have taken that amount and applied it in retiring the national debt until now we are seven years ahead of our program."

PALESTINE, May 27 (AP) District Judge B. F. Dent late Wednesday refused an injunction sought by J. W. Brightwell and others seeking to restrain the International-Great Northern railway company from drilling oil wells on its right-of-way in the Kilgore area.

Hawks Flies Over Europe In Short Span of 10 Hours

PARIS, May 27, (AP)—Captain Frank Hawks, riding his fast airplane like a magic carpet, toured Europe in ten hours Wednesday, having breakfast in London, luncheon in Berlin and dinner Wednesday evening in Paris.

The three point flight began shortly after 8 o'clock Wednesday morning when he left Le Bourget for Croydon field, England. He made that trip in a little more than an hour, had breakfast and went on to Berlin, covering that stretch in three hours and fifteen minutes.

The flight down to Le Bourget ended a little after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. The last leg required three hours and one minute.

Averages 190 Miles.

"That's better time than Von Kluck made in 1914," said one of the French pilots at the field. The crowd which had gathered to greet the American called him "the meteor man."

He averaged 190 miles an hour. Thursday the captain will receive the 1930 trophy of the International League of Aviators at a ceremony on the porch of the Mount Vernon homestead, American headquarters of the French colonial exposition.

By his feat Wednesday Captain Hawks won a dinner in Paris from his Texas friends with whom he had made a bet on the success of his venture.

Move To Increase Poison Sentence of Virgil Kirkland

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 27, (AP)—A move to increase the prison term of Virgil Kirkland was under way Wednesday night.

Prosecutor Robert Estill announced after the Gary youth had been taken to the Pendleton state reformatory to begin serving a sentence of 1 to 10 years for assault and battery with intent to rape that he would formally demand Monday the sentence be increased to five to 21 years.

Cites Former Decision

He made this statement after Attorney General James M. Ogden in Indianapolis in an informal opinion, had said Kirkland's sentence of one to ten years in connection with the death of Arlene Graves, was not correct.

Ogden cited a 1930 supreme court decision that a 1927 statute defining rape and setting one to 10 years as punishment did not repeal a 1921 statute covering assault and battery in an attempt to commit rape, which fixed the penalty at five to 21 years and $1,000 fine.

"I have it on the authority of the attorney general that Judge Crumpacker erred in giving Kirkland the reformatory sentence," Estell said. "My staff will do everything in its power to have the punishment increased."

GRADUATION FOR P. J. C. STUDENTS TO BE THURSDAY

Thirty-Eight to Receive Diplomas; Five Will Get Certificates

Commencement exercises for the sixth annual graduation of the Paris junior college will be held at Paris high school auditorium Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The largest class in the history of the college, 38 students, will receive diplomas and five will be awarded certificates.

The program for the graduation exercises will be short, Dean McLemore announced Wednesday night. It will be as follows:

Invocation, Rev. R. A. Gay.
Vocal solo, Irene Higgs.
Class address, Jack Springer.
Vocal solo, Anna Ruth Albright.
Commencement address, Rev. J. Roby Ward. The subject will be "Winning the Game of Life."

Announcement of honors and awarding of medals and also the presentation of certificates and diplomas by Dean J. R. McLemore.

The graduation exercises are open to the public and the public is cordially invited, the dean said.

The valedictory honor will be announced at the commencement exercises. As a general rule there has been a valedictory address made at the commencement exercises. This year, however, the grades have been so close that the final check-up can not be made until Thursday night. Jack Springer was selected by the senior class to make a class address in place of the valedictory talk.

Honorable mention will be made for the students of the college who have been chosen for the national honorary scholastic fraternity which the college is petitioning. Twenty-five or more per cent of the graduates of the junior college are honor students.

6 Seventh Grades To Graduate Here

Graduation programs for the seventh grade classes of the six ward schools of Paris will be held Thursday evening at the respective school buildings, diplomas to be awarded those who have successfully completed the seven elementary grades.

In addition, writing certificates and other awards will be delivered, the latter including the six medals given by Lamar chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, for the best essay in each school on Southern history, the subject being chosen each year by the chapter for students of the history classes.

These are the programs as announced by the principals of the schools:

First Ward

This program will begin at 8 p. m., according to C. M. Rushing, the principal at First Ward:

Chorus, "A Spring Morning."; violin solo, Maxine Whitney accompanied by Inez Hatcher; reading, "Employ Your Own Intellect" Gene Woodfin; cornet solo Ed Slayton, accompanied by Charles Logan; poem "See It Through," Theodell Thompson; piano solo, "Rambling Through the Forest," Charles Logan; talk, Judge C. A. Martin; presentation of U. D. C. medal; writing certificates and diplomas; chorus, "Lord of the Sea and Land".

J. G. Wooten School

The program at the J. G. Wooten school will begin at 6 p. m.:

Invocation, Dr. F. L. Wear; chorus, "Springtime Song"; salutatory, musical reading, Janet Jett and Mary Julia Armstrong; address.

Personalities Behind The News

(Editor's Note: This story on General Pershing is another in the series giving little known facts about prominent persons often in the news. Friday: Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, by Elton C. Fay.)

By KIRKE SIMPSON

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 27, (AP)—Lifelong cavalryman that he is, "Black Jack" Pershing finds his greatest pleasure in exercise afoot.

His pair of fine mounts, Kidron, presented by France, and Jeff, the gift of friends at home, wax sleek and lazy in the cavalry stables at Fort Meyer. Like their master they live in honorable retirement.

Almost every morning when General Pershing is in Washington, he strikes downtown sidewalks with vigorous steps. Few recognize him. He is a great window shopper as was President Coolidge on his daily strolls.

Bookstore windows attract him. He has gathered a library of world war literature and has read it all.

Wherever he goes, his baggage includes his golf clubs. They are special tools of the game for Pershing is a port sider when he does play.

Back in his regimental days, he was a noted man at "saddle blanket poker." That was his game. He had the face for it.

Tragedy that brought death by fire long ago to wife and all but one child robbed Pershing of home life. Since then he has always lived in "quarters." In his active army days, bachelor officers and non-commissioned officers of his personal staff were his family. They lived with him.

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 27, (AP)—Roy T. Shedy, 49-year-old artist who had painted some 3,500 portraits, died here Wednesday. He had been ill several weeks.

GOODWIN MOTION IS OVERRULED

Rehearing Is Denied Man Convicted of Murdering Lloyd Elliott

AUSTIN, May 27, (AP)—After waiting several months, the court of criminal appeals Wednesday overruled a motion for rehearing by Dave Goodwin, convicted of the "hog murder" of Lloyd Elliott in Bowie county and sentenced to death.

Judge A. B. Martin, since retired, had affirmed the case six months ago, stating the court was powerless because of technicalities to grant a reversal notwithstanding that Goodwin "manifestly had not been given a fair trial."

Statement Controverted

The opinion Wednesday, written by W. B. Morrow, presiding judge, controverted that statement. Judge Morrow cited several cases where the court had ordered retrials when the first trial was not fair.

Judge Morrow's opinion stated that testimony at the motion for a new trial indicated no mob spirit prevalent and that proceedings were orderly. Goodwin's attorneys had claimed a mob spirit pervaded the trial, coercing the jury and overawing the court. The opinion pointed out the trial judge had stated the trial was orderly and calm.

Failure of the trial judge to order a change of venue on his own motion was mildly criticised by Judge Morrow.

The killing was claimed to have occured after an argument concerning a hog. Goodwin pleaded self defense.

Flames Destroy Vacant Houses

Two more vacant houses Thursday morning about 1 o'clock went up in flames. The houses, owned by Dr. Zindel Taylor, were located at 144 and 146 North Twentieth street.

The houses were completely ablaze when firemen arrived at the scene.

Origin of the fire was unknown.

School Failures Expensive To Taxpayers, Says Report

It is an expensive matter for the tax payers of Paris when a student of the Paris high school fails to pass his work.

When a student "flunks" it costs $63 for teaching services alone. This does not include the expenses of lighting, heating and other services that have to be met by the schools.

In some subjects such as geometry and arithmetic the percentage of failing is high because of the difficulty the student has in learning the subject. A. H. Chamness, superintendent of the Paris schools, says that sometimes this percentage runs as high as 30 per cent of the students taking the subject. These subjects have been required for all students and that is one reason the percentage of failures is so high.

The subjects which the students take as electives do not have such a large failing percentage. The superintendent says that this percentage ranges from 2 to 10 per cent according to the popularity of the subject.

"It is rather an expensive affair for students to fail. It is not only expensive for the tax payers but it is expensive for the parents. To send their children an extra year to the high school adds another year's expense for them," Mr. Chamness declared.

"Cooperation of the parents in lowering this percentage is needed. There are few excuses for students to fail. When they do it is generally because they do not study. We are doing everything in our power to get the parents to cooperate with the faculty in teaching the students so that they may pass their work and the failing percentage shall be very low," Chamness said.

DR. BROOK'S LAST WORDS GIVEN TO BAYLOR SENIORS

Message Penned On Death Bed Read Before Graduating Class

WACO, May 27, (AP)—The 1931 graduating class of Baylor University stepped forth to battle stern life Wednesday with the counsel of Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, late president of the university to guide its steps.

Dr. Brooks, just before his death had prepared a message "to the senior class of 1931, to the seniors of all years, those seniors of the past, and those seniors yet to be."

The educator's counsel was read by Dean W. S. Allen, long associated with Baylor and only Tuesday named by its regents to take the presidency temporarily. Two hundred and seventy nine graduates were in the hushed assembly that heard the message.

"I stand on the border of mortal life, but I face eternal life," the president wrote while lying desperately ill of a malady he knew would be fatal. "I look backward to the years of the past to see all pettiness, all triviality shrink into nothing and disappear. Adverse criticism has no meaning now. Only the worthwhile things, the constructive things, the things that have been built up for the good of mankind and the glory of God count now. x x x

"Truths do not change. The truths of life which I learned as a student at Baylor have not varied nor will they vary. I know now that life has been a summary of that which was taught me first as a student here. As my teachers have lived through me, so I must live through you, my students. You

12 Steel Coaches Turned Over by Twister

FARGO, N. D., May 27, (AP)—Lifted bodily from the track by a tornado the Great Northern's crack Empire Builder, east bound, was wrecked about eight miles southeast of here at 4.22 p. m. Wednesday, killing one person and injuring a number of others.

The 12 steel coaches comprising the train were turned over on their sides. The engine and tender alone remained on the track.

The person killed was identified as A. Anderson of Montesano, Wash., believed to be a section worker, who was pitched from the train through the window.

Arthur J. Labe, Bellingham, Wash., scratches.

Emma Kuhn, St. Paul, shock.

Andrew Kuhn, St. Paul, shock.

Mrs. Herbert Hunkins, Fort Benton, Mont., shock.

Jacob Kreiger, Spokane, Wash., bruises and scratches on hands.

Ed Jones, Blaine, Wash., head contusion.

Miss F. Noble, New York city, scratches and bruises on body.

A wrecker was sent from St. Cloud, Minn., to the scene of the wrecked train Wednesday night.

The tornado swooped down on the farm of E. C. Miller, a mile east of Dilworth, Minn., and flattened the barn and outbuildings. Members of the family escaped injury.

Edward Brandt, conductor in charge of the train, was dazed by the wreck as were many of the passengers.

Those on the train said they had no warning of the storm until the windows crashed in. Then the coaches overturned.

At least 20 persons were injured. Most of the passengers were from the Pacific Northwest, en route to St. Paul.

"Stratosphere" Balloon Still Up

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 28, (Thursday) (AP)—The "stratosphere" balloon of Professor Auguste Piccard crossed the northern Italian border early this morning after a helter skelter, "hedge hopping" flight above the Alps and gave rise to a growing belief Professor Piccard and his companion Charles Kipfer, could not remain alive.

After being sighted over several towns in Western Austria, tracing a southward flight from Innsbruck the balloon was reported sighted by the gendarmerie over Bozen, Italy, continuing its southward course.

Believe Occupants Alive

The fact that the balloon continued in the air, with no apparent effort being made to bring it to earth, was considered a further argument in favor of the theory Professor Piccard and Kipfer had perished.

Friends of Professor Piccard at Munich, however, were reported as finding grounds for hope in the continued flight. They declared the fact the balloon maintained a fairly even altitude, rising only as it crossed the Alpine heights, indicated the huge bag still was being guided by a human hand.

Reports from Innsbruck said the balloon was being tossed about like a ball in the wind, at a height of 15,000 feet, when it was sighted there.

Begin Trial of Man Named In Cerf Kidnaping

CORSICANA, May 27, (AP)—After four defense motions had been overruled by District Judge Hawkins Scarborough, the trial of Currie Caldwell for assault in disguise began late Wednesday. The indictment was returned in connection with the kidnaping of Robert Cerf last December. He was released in Dallas on payment of $15,000 ransom. Caldwell was one of five men indicted in the case.

Six of eight veniremen questioned were accepted for the jury before adjournment for the day.

One defense motion for continuance, citing the absence of Blanche Bolden, a defense witness, was overruled when County Attorney Cleo Miller said she had been located in Houston and would be here Thursday. Another motion sought to disqualify the judge, saying he had discussed the matter with I. N. Cerf, Corsicana banker and father of the man abducted, but had not conferred with the prosecutor or members of the grand jury. He refused to disqualify himself.

Recover Body Of Second Victim of Ill Fated Yacht

NEW YORK, May 27, (AP)—The body of a second victim of the foundered sloop Sea Fox, which put out from City Island Saturday with a party of seven prominent young New Yorkers, was recovered from Long Island Sound Wednesday.

Half a mile off shore from Norwalk, Conn., a boatman found the body of Miss Doris Dewey, 29, psychologist at Bellevue hospital. She was clad in pink lounging pajamas over a bathing suit.

The body of Mrs. Marcia Snedden, 25, a psychiatrist known professionally as Miss Marcia Mendenhall, was recovered Tuesday.

Little Hope for Others.

Little hope was held the other members of the party were alive, but eight coast guard cutters, a group of police patrol boats from New York and three airplanes searched Long Island waters all day.

The missing are Donald Snedden, 28, associate professor of education at New York university, husband of Marcia Mendenhall Snedden and owner and navigator of the sloop; Robert Mendenhall, 29, of the statistical bureau, Columbia university, brother of Mrs. Snedden, his wife, Florence, 28; Mary Coyne, 28, instructor at the Riverdale County school, and Robert Johnston, night club entertainer.

Johnston has appeared in smart night places in New York, London and Paris, his partner being his wife Muriel.

The Weather

Maximum temperature for Paris Wednesday, 87 degrees; minimum 67 degrees.

East Texas, cloudy, occasional thunder showers in west portion Thursday; Friday unsettled, probably local thunder showers, cooler in northwest portion. Moderate to fresh southerly winds on the coast.

At the Lamar

Leon Janney, who comes to the Lamar theatre today in "Father's Son," his first big production for First National, is a member of Troop 90, Boy Scouts of America.

This juvenile actor in motion pictures looks and acts more like the typical Boy Scout that he is than the finished performer directors and critics acclaim him to be.

He not only is an expert in the making of bows and arrows, but is an adept in the art of archery. He weaves practical baskets, rides horseback, and, although quite young, furnishes a good hand in the construction of cabins and bridges. Early in his Scout studies he learned how to make fire by friction, and his flapjacks must be eaten to be appreciated. In fact the boy, despite his busy career in motion pictures, is a full fleged Scout.

His heroes are Daniel Boone, Davy Crockett and Kit Carson, the first scouts. He says his inspirations are Theodore Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey, Buffalo Bill, Cody, John Muir and John Burroughs, whose assistance was largely responsible for the success of this remarkable organization founded by Daniel Beard.

Others in the cast of "Father's Son," are Lewis Stone, Irene Rich, John Halliday and Mickey Bennett.

School to Have Summer Session

The Patterson Commercial School, on southwest corner of the Plaza, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Patterson, opens is fourth summer session June 1 to extend through August 28, offering a thirteen weeks session, and catering to high school students and teachers who are not engaged in other work for the summer months, as well as to students who have taken up commerical training and want to finish their courses this summer.

The Patterson school offers all the commercial courses that can be had in Paris. It has gained an enviable reputation by conducting itself on a high plane and by giving very expert instruction.

Students are drawn to the Patterson school from all over Paris area and some have come from other states. Mr. Patterson says his gradutes are in demand and also states that he is looking forward to next fall and winter when he expects to have the largest enrollment ever.

At the Plaza

Showing at the Plaza today and tomorrow.

"Young Sinners," Fox Movietone's lively and provocative adaptation of the popular New York stage success of the same name, comes to the Plaza Theatre today and tomorrow. Heading the cast are two well known and talented juveniles, Dorothy Jordan, recently seen with Robert Montgomery in "Shipmates", and Hardie Albright. Also prominently cast in this picture is Thomas Meighan making an auspicious return to the screen.

"Young Sinners" tells the fascinating story of a young and headstrong son of a millionaire who hits the high spots with reckless abandon when he makes the startling discovery that the girl he loves is engaged to a stiff shirted German nobleman. The boy, however, comes under the influence of a good natured but iron willed trainer who proceeds to punch good sense and ideals into his head in a mountain camp in the Adirondacks. Just when the trainer is accomplishing his purpose and is winning the respect and admiration of the boy, the girl, deserting her fiance, arrives at camp and, without much ado, makes a desperate attempt to disrupt the rules and regulations imposed on her sweetheart by the trainer. Needless to say her presence makes for complications, many of them humorously gay, and some of them dramatically convincing. The unusual and different manner in which this story is worked out makes for timely and interesting dramatic comedy.

Dorothy Jordan is the girl who wants her man when she wants him. It is a good role for Miss Jordan who brings a refreshing note to the role of the modern, sophisticated girl. And Hardie Albright is the boy who wins the girl he loves but not in the manner he expected. The trainer is believable and convincing in the expert performance of Thomas Meighan. Others in the cast include James Kirkwood, Cecilia Loftus and Nora Lane.

WASHINGTON.—Spank 'em and save 'em alone.

The old-fashioned rule of the air brush with a modern leavening of common sense is the method employed by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general of the United States in bringing up her adopted daughter, Dorothy.

Dorothy, a bright faced little lass of seven years, was adopted by Mrs. Willebrandt five years ago. Her mother died leaving the youngster alone and Mrs. Willebrandt, then holding her high office, took the child and brought her to Washington.

The ponies under 13 hands high will be announced Friday.

All entries for the races must be in by Thursday afternoon (instead of Friday) in order that the card may be completed. Those wishing to enter should see Ben Horton at the fair grounds or phone Miss Mary Moore at 540.

The racing program is being sponsored by the league for the benefit of its charity work.

Spanish War Vets To Hold Reunion At San Antonio

Dr. L. B. Stephens is in receipt of a communication from Louis W. Degen of San Antonio, commander of Eugene J. Hernandez Camp No. 1, Spanish American War Veterans, to the effect there will be a regimental re-union held there Sunday night, June 28, during the Department Encampment and state convention of the United Spanish American War Veterans.

To date there have been 71 regiments taking advantage of this event, and the member of any regiment, cavalry, infantry, or marine, is eligible for registration. To get the necessary recognition it is necessary to send the name of regiment and company. This convention is to be one of the high-lights in recent Spanish American war veterans history, and from all indications there will be several thousand in attendance.

Dr. L. B. Stephens can give further information desired. The Paris Camp of Spanish American War Veterans will be represented at this convention, both as a camp and regimental and company units.

Gun Club Opens Summer Program

Slating a skeet shoot and the first session of the Paris gun club for Friday afternoon at Fair Park a program of entertainment for the Paris Gun Club this season is started. An invitation to all has been issued by the club members.

In a letter which was sent out to the skeet shooters by the secretary, J. E. Gorham, the prospects for the summer shoots are outlined. The state shoot is to be held in Dallas July 4. It is the plan of the Paris club to hold their annual merchandise and money shoot before the state shoot.

There are no club dues for the gun club and it is open to the public. Anyone can go out to the range and shoot whether he is a member of the club or not.

Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

Mrs. S. A. Solomon of New Bern, N. C., lost 47 lbs. in 3 months with Kruschen Salts. She reduced from 217 to 170 lbs. She feels much stronger, years younger and pains in sides, back and abdomen that bothered her for years are all gone. She says she not only feels better but looks better as all her friends tell her.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at the Palace Drug Store and druggists the world over. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.—Adv.

SUPER CAVALIER

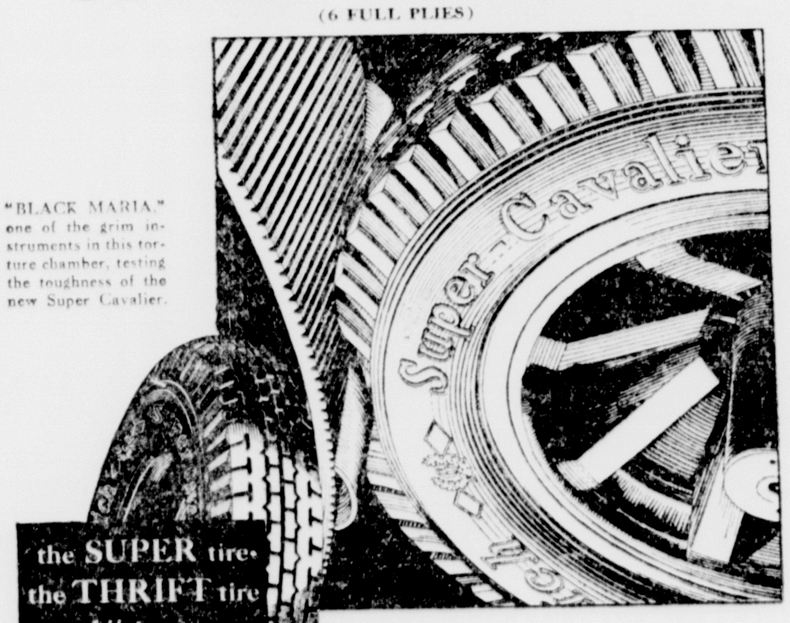
(6 FULL PLIES)



"BLACK MARIA," one of the grim instruments in this torture chamber, testing the toughness of the new Super Cavalier.

IN the Goodrich laboratories stands a battery of huge machines that hammer, twist and pull at the very heart of a tire, destroying it to discover its weaknesses. Daily hundreds of stock tires run the gamut of these machines.

This is the Goodrich Torture Chamber. These steel monsters are part of a never-ending determination to make better tires—tires that are worthy of the name Goodrich.

Out of this constant testing and proving comes the new Goodrich Super Cavalier. A brand-new tread design—a heavier, tougher tread, a stronger carcass. All the way through, a 26% better tire than ever before.

*Consider your Adam's Apple!!

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Eve started it and the daughters of Eve inherited it. Eve gave Adam the apple, and it seems that Adam must have passed it on. For every man and every woman has an Adam's Apple. Put your finger on your Adam's Apple—that is your larynx, you voice box—it contains your vocal chords. Consider your Adam's Apple—when you do so, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Spank 'Em And Leave 'Em

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt Uses Old-Fashioned Method (Gently) in Rearing Adopted Daughter

By RILLA SCHROEDER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Spank 'em and leave 'em alone.

The old-fashioned rule of the hair brush with a modern leavening of common sense is the method employed by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general of the United States in bringing up her adopted daughter, Dorothy.

Dorothy, a bright faced little lass of seven years, was adopted by Mrs. Willebrandt five years ago. Her mother died leaving the youngster alone and Mrs. Willebrandt, then holding her high office, took the child and brought her to Washington afterwards legally adopting her.

A school teacher before she hung out her shingle as a lawyer, Mrs. Willebrandt was well acquainted with the problem with which she was confronted. And being an ex-schoolmarm, she had very definite ideas upon the mistakes usually made by mothers. She wanted above everything to teach little Dorothy to stand firmly upon her two small feet. Self-reliance (a trait which the energetic former Kansas farm girl possesses in abundance) is the quality she most admires.

Spankings Automatic

In the curriculum arranged for Dorothy there was no "kissing to make it well" when the two-year-old tumbled down the steps. The youngster learned that, unless she was really hurt, crying did not bring "mother" running to her assistance. A hard lesson—Mrs. Willebrandt confesses it was equally hard for her—but one that has made the seven-year-old Dorothy a veritable Spartan.

The spankings automatically followed wrong doing. Mrs. Willebrandt believes in corporal punishment for tiny children. Dorothy is no longer turned over the knee (being all of seven) but in her baby days she was frequently.

Dorothy tried all the tricks usually employed by children upon their parents. She tried being naughty in front of company (the spankings were always behind closed doors) and failing that tried working on "mother's" tenderer sentiments.

Developing Her Character

Friends of Mrs. Willebrandt have asked if perhaps the mother by process of law might have been less "coldly intellectual" if Dorothy had been her own child. Mrs. Willebrandt does not believe so. She is convinced that it is a matter of character rather than accident of birth. Remembering her own childhood she believes it was her father's Spartan training that gave her the courage to go on in the face of the bitter criticism hurled at her head during her political career. Dorothy, she contends, is as dear to her as it she had been her own child and her concern for the development of the little one's character is the expression of her real maternal solicitude.

Mrs. Willebrandt tells the story of how the baby (guilty of one of the common errors of childhood) was taught to remake her own little bed in the middle of the night. Unaided she pulled and tugged at the mattress until she managed to turn it, and sheets and blankets were carried to the bathroom to be deposited by Dorothy herself in the clothes basket.

At three little Dorothy went to the grocery store a couple of blocks away from the apartment where Mrs. Willebrandt made her home. At four she made a trip to Chicago by herself (under, of course, the protection of the porter) and at five she was able to go downtown in Washington on the street car alone.

Diet Training

She knew at four how to summon a taxi to take her to her mother's office and was thoroughly at home two years previously in the restaurants of the capital. One of the first problems confronting her adopted mother was the problem of Dorothy's diet. The youngster was improperly nourished and it took several months of struggle before Mrs. Willebrandt could teach her that spinach, etc. MUST be eaten no matter how very badly a little girl yearned for ice cream. Now Dorothy can be trusted to go to restaurants by herself and order only the items on her very carefully supervised bill of fare. On her trip to Chicago she went alone to the dining car and ordered her own meals (the steward had been privately informed by Mrs. Willebrandt that ice cream was a dessert and not to be eaten in place of soup).

Know More Than Believed

Mrs. Willebrandt believes that children are as a rule more brilliant than their elders give them credit. And most emphatically she believes that they should not be excused of wrong doing on the grounds that they are children. From the first, she contends, they should be made to feel that they are responsible human beings and as such accountable for their actions.

She does not believe in coddling or petting. Too many children, her experience as a teacher convinced her, are ruined by overmuch so-called mother love. A child should be made to feel spiritually its mother's love and confidence. Praise for work well done in a measure is part of her program.

TRAIN WRECKED

the country. It was named for James J. Hill, "the empire builder" who constructed the Great Northern from St. Paul to Seattle, Wash. It operates between those two points via Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Idaho.

Several of the injured were seriously hurt, a half dozen having head wounds.

Several passengers were in a semi-couscious condition when they were pulled from the coaches. All were brought to Fargo on a special relief train dispatched to the scene immediately after word of the wreck came.

After playing havoc with the train, the tornado swept into Minnesota, killing Andrew Hatleoal, farmer near Moorhead, when a building on his farm collapsed. Many barns and other buildings were wrecked.

Descriptions of the wreck by the train crew and several passengers revealed many freaks of the wind.

D. E. McKee, St. Paul, engineer, said the 12 cars were literally jerked away from the locomotive which remained on the rails.

The coaches were laid over on their sides, but not a tie was crushed, nor a rail twisted, he said.

Know The Men Behind Your Bank

ROBERT O. MURPHY

Robert O. Murphy, director, First National Bank, has an enviable reputation as a citizen and business man. Born in Paris, he was trained in the right way in business and citizenship from boyhood by his father, the late R. J. Murphy, one of the most outstanding citizens in the history of the city. Following in the footsteps of an illustrious father the son is today holding positions to which his father devoted many years.

His father was also vice-president of the First National Bank. "Bob", as he is known to his friends, completed high school in Paris, later attending Castle Heights at Lebanon, Tenn., Texas A. & M. College and holds the degree Ph. G. from the University of Texas. He has never had any other business connection except the drug store established by his father in Paris fifty years ago. He is a Mason, a member of the Lion's Club, Business Men's Club, Chamber of Commerce director, member school board and a deacon in the First Presbyterian church. His hobby is poultry development, to which he has devoted much effective work. His favorite sport is baseball.

This well rounded career, made more valuable by his love for and loyalty to his county and his understanding of the problems of our section, qualifies him for valuable services as a director in the bank his father helped to build.

Solid business foundations are not alone of gold and silver, not of the fixtures—not of the things that are always visible to the eye. The personnel which directs the destinies of the business is of foremost importance.

No bank is stronger than the men who administer its affairs. No business is stronger than the bank behind it and no community is stronger than its business firms.

It is therefore of great importance to every person in Lamar county that the officers and directors of the First National Bank are men of integrity, keen business foresight, sensibly conservative and men who stand ready, willing and anxious to lend their support to every worthy project which has for its purpose the advancement and prosperity of the community.

This accounts for the fact that The First National Bank stands solidly back of so many business and agricultural enterprises. That is why we are attentive to sound programs of expansion and why we have an understanding of the problems of our patrons. That is why this bank can give intelligent, constructive banking service

Consider the men behind the First National Bank. This is the ninth of a series of articles on the subject.

YOUR VACATION

THAT vacation you are planning is just like your purse. You can only get out of it what you put into it.

Your week or month away from familiar scenes and duties should be as carefully planned as any part of the year's work. Remember, you are going to vacate. That means to vacate the mind of its worries, and obligations, to vacate the familiar tasks of the hands and feet, to vacate the work-a-day haunts of the year. If you live inland, visit the sea. If you live near the coast, visit the mountains. Get away from everything that is familiar if you can.

The place in which you decide to spend your vacation is not so important as the mood in which you decide to spend it. Two people start out on their vacations. Both go the same place, traveling over the same route, and stay the same length of time. One will have a splendid time, meet charming people, enjoy beautiful weather and find fun in every crowded minute. The other will be bored to death, curse the rotten weather and wish all the time he were somewhere else. The second vacationist puts no soul into his outing. He had no plan. He had nothing to give so found nothing to take.

Pleasure on your vacation comes, oddly enough from the work you put into it. Know where and why you are going to the particular place you have chosen. Fill every minute with activity, but with the kind of activity not native to the year's routine work.

And, speaking of weather, those who can choose their vacation period would do well to learn the time of full moon in July and August. Good weather usually holds sway just before and after that event. And a moonlight in the mountains or at the ocean trebles the joy of a vacation.

Go to it with a purpose. Refresh your body and stimulate your mind. Feast your eyes on new scenes. Broaden your sympathies by new contacts. Vacation means recreation, and recreation is fully re-creation.

LORIMER RETURNS

WILLIAM Lorimer, who has emerged from long retirement to take the stump in Illinois for the purpose of promoting a wet delegation to the 1932 republican national convention, is little more than a name to the present generation. But twenty-odd years ago, at the height of his power, as the "Blond Boss" of Illinois, he was one of the most forceful political leaders in the country.

He was "Smiling Bill" to the public, but those in the inner circles of Illinois politics knew and feared him as a man whose ambitions knew no bounds and whose methods were not always gentle or nice. He fought his way to control of Cook county and Chicago politics, formed strong alliances and dictated his own election to the senate from Illinois.

The election to the senate proved the undoing of the "Blond Boss". Rumors of coercion and pressure used at Springfield to send him to Washington followed him to the national capital. The senate solemnly sat in judgment in 1912 and vacated his seat by voting 55 to 28, to uphold charges that he was elected by fraud and bribery. This ended Lorimer's meteoric career abruptly.

Returning to Illinois, he quickly dropped into the political background and a financial venture failed disastrously. Other promotion schemes took him to South America, while Illinois well-nigh forgot him. His reappearance will startle and puzzle the state. Does he expect to re-enter politics on the wet issue? There are so many difficulties as to make that conclusion seem most improbable.

MEANEST MAN OUTDOORS

EVIDENCE of the meanest man outdoors is strewn all over the country. He is the fellow who has no consideration for others, revelling only in malicious practices or destroying acts to satisfy his own desires.

He is the fellow who does not hesitate to toss a lighted match or burning cigarette into the dry forest duff, sending on its destructive way a consuming fire. He is the fellow who yanks wild flowers up by the roots or tears limbs from flowering trees for a few fresh blossoms. He is the fellow who carries a gun and shoots at anything that flies or runs and delights in shooting up road signs. He is the fellow who believes that firing at power, telephone and telegraph glass insulators comes under the head of sport. He is the fellow who doesn't hesitate to cut a farmer's fence, burn down a coon tree, peel birch bark or steal evergreen trees from private and public property.

He is the fellow that kills a fawn with as much delight as he would a rattlesnake; who refuses to take care of his camping wastes and leaves the site like a city dump. He is the fellow who burns all the outdoor bridges after him expecting to return next year and find that nature has repaired his destructiveness; who has no understanding of outdoor courtesy and no consideration for the rights of others.

He is the meanest man outdoors but the fates have been kind in limiting his brood.

The further we can keep ourselves from becoming involved in this maelstrom of international politics, the better off we will be.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

"PLAYING OVER YOUR HEAD" I HUNG AROUND POOLROOMS SOMETHING I LEARNED

Marshall Maslin

I WASN'T supposed to be hanging around poolrooms.

But I couldn't keep away from them.

When I was on the way to the library, I'd duck into that poolroom in lower Main street, or I'd ride my bike across the bridge to Chinatown and sit around in a poolroom over there. The day wasn't complete unless I played a game of pool. Nickels and dimes I'd earned by making boxes, peddling papers and selling sacks and bottles went for games of "rotation," or "straight pool." ....It wasn't my ambition to be a "tough character"; I wanted to be a "pool shark"—one of those lads who can "run the table" any time they care to try.

Well, I never did become a "pool shark." Something diverted me, other things became more important—I think it was a little girl with dark eyes and pink cheeks .... But I did learn to shoot a fair game of pool. And on certain days hardly anybody in town could beat me. I'd say "Eight ball in the side pocket—— Combination on the three ball off the fifteen into the corner .... Bank the fourteen into the end." ....And in they'd go! On those days I couldn't miss a shot. I had luck, nerve, cockiness and accuracy. ....In other words, there were days when I Played Over My Head. That's what we called it when we played better than we really knew how. It was fun—Playing Over Your Head—and I haven't forgotten the pleasure of it, though anybody could beat me playing pool now.

And I learned from that experience that it's always fun to Play Over Your Head at anything. That's when we're happiest—when we Play Over Our Heads. When we're braver than we thought we were. When we're brighter than we usually are. When we're more generous than we dreamed, more self-sacrificing, more tolerant, more broad-minded. When everything's clicking and everything's purring and we never "felt better in our lives."

I'm not advising small boys to hang around poolrooms. You can pick up other things in them that might hurt a boy forever .... But I did happen to learn from them the pleasure that comes from Playing Over My Head—from seeing the abler or wiser or better part of me come forth and make a public appearance. That's fun!

WORLD PEACE DAY URGED AS REMINDER TO NATIONS OF PACT AGAINST WAR

By John Galsworthy
Author and Playwright

THAT peace should be a "question" is a farce to one loving beauty and proportion. To favor peace is to favor the continuance of civilization, for that is what it is coming to.

With the development of airplanes, explosives and poison gases in recent years, the men, women and children of any country partaking in a future war seem doomed to creep like rats into a drainpipe.

There will be no chivalry, honor or glory in a future war; no distinction of age or sex, or between the sick or healthy will be shown. There will be no immunity for culture. There will be nothing but flying, invisible shapes, raining death and desolation.

The country that indulges in war will become a shadow of its former self and slink down into the pit of the past. This is no cry of alarm, but common sense.

There should be a day consecrated to the Kellogg pact, a day to be observed in every country of the world. I venture to suggest to President Hoover, who has the cause of peace at heart, that he should press this on the governments of the world. We need to be reminded annually that we have renounced war.

Nobody today can believe, as some did before 1914, that war is beneficial. Before 1914, to believe in the need for peace was to be considered somewhat of a freak. In 1931, not to believe in the need for peace is to be the village idiot.

WHAT AN EARTHQUAKE IS

IT used to be thought that an earthquake made the cracks (faults) in the earth's crust. But now it is maintained the cracking of the earth is what produces the earthquake. Warpings of the earth's crust set up great stress and strain within it. If the strain is vertical, the rigid crust may bend a little, but if the strain becomes too great, the crust breaks. With the fracture of the crust, the strain is released and the crust rebounds to its former position producing violent shock. Or if the strain be horizontal along the line of old fracture, the sudden release of strain produces a terrific jerk to the side.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Comments From Contemporaries

SHERMAN DEMOCRAT:

William E. Fuller was a wealthy Californian and known as "the good Samaritan of Winfield street." He got this name because he was always helping some down and outer or feeding some family that had no food or money to buy. A few weeks ago he met two men who claimed they were hungry and he took them to his home and fed them, and after partaking of a good meal they got up and killed and robbed him.

It is such acts as these that make people afraid to attempt to help anyone. The hitchhiking hijacker has put a stop to picking people up by automobilists. But the murderers of William Fuller have been arrested. One of them was followed to Mobile, Ala., and captured. He has confessed and told who his associate is, and he also has been arrested. The law is after criminals more persistently than ever, and with better success than usual.

TEXARKANA GAZETTE:

"We cannot legislate ourselves out of a world of economic depression. We can and will work ourselves out," said President Hoover, in announcing that there will be no special session of congress.

Legislative efforts to sustain prices artificially never have been successful. Neither congress nor legislatures can repeal the old law of supply and demand.

Congressional paring of high tariff rates might help considerably, but business still remembers the disastrous and unsettling effects of the recent tariff revision, when President Hoover's program for limited readjustment got out of bounds and resulted in a general lifting of all rates.

Business prefers to adjust itself to present conditions under existing laws rather than to be subjected to the uncertainties that would prevail should congress be called together to legislate the country out of its present difficulties.

Meanwhile the president offers the only real solution—work. Work, and intelligent study of conditions, acceptance of facts as they exist, and readjustment to meet circumstances are the ingredients for the only medicine that will cure economic ills.

Booksellers have taken up the cudgels against publishers asserting that misleading and untruthful statements are printed on wrappers of many new books and demanding that publishers guarantee the truth of their "blurbs," on a money-back basis.

Expecting a book to live up to its jacket—"blurb" is like demanding that a bottle of Bronx "Scotch" live up to its label.

The duchess was skimming through a snooty illustrated book review the other night.

And if you don't think they look alike, stack their picture side by side and get the shock of your life.

A Trouper's Vale

The following communication from Louise Muldener appears in Equity Magazine. It is reprinted here as a touching human document that may mean something to old-timers:

"On the first of April I became a guest of the Actors' Fund of America in the Percy Williams Home, East Islip, L. I., and I find myself deluged with questions as to why I took this step.

"All my life my ambition was to die in harness. I worked as hard as I could, as long as I could, at anything I could—even to Summers in Chautauquas and Winters on the lyceum circuits—anything to stay at work and out of debt. Though generally able to command only a modest salary, I was able to do this and even to take occasional trips abroad and enjoy other luxuries.

"And then the dark clouds came—not alone due to old age, for when I was 72 I embarked on a two year tour with Bertha Kalich in 'Magda' and never missed a performance. But there was a growing scarcity of parts. Little by little the bank account was dwindling. 'Nothing today. Nothing at all,' from the managers and agents. A futile search for other lines of endeavor! And I couldn't beg. The words remained glued to my lips.

"Wireless after wireless I despatched to the Manager behind the clouds to release me from this role. Always the answer came back, 'Not yet!' But oh, when it seemed darkest the Actors' Fund shed its beams of gentle light across my black horizon.

"So there is no more need for me to answer questions as to how I am and what I am doing, with a ghastly smile, and tears in my throat, or to cheat myself or others with my replies, or to hide my age.

"Now at 77 I bid my adored profession good-bye, without bitterness and with the deepest gratitude and heartfelt appreciation for Daniel Frohman, the late Percy Williams and all those who have labored to provide a haven of rest, comfort and happiness in these wonderful homes.

"The next to the last chapter is finished. I can only wait with interest and without fear the completion of that last chapter, of which, now, only a few pages remain."

Running Expenses

A run in her stocking may be an annoyance to Mah-dam, but it's a real tragedy to hotel men, managers of several Manhattan hostelries confess. All admit that when an irate customer demands compensation for damages to stockings caught and torn on the furniture, they pay, in amounts variously estimated at from $50 to $500 a year.

The Golden Pen

Be an author. Easy work, big pay.

Last year Harper's Magazine received 25,000 manuscripts, or about 80 a day. It uses about one hundred and seventy-five annually.

The Saturday Evening Post receives about 1,000 a day.

And how many of those do you suppose ever reach the eagle eye of George Horace Lorimer?

Nighthawk Diet

New York, it is said, is the only town in the world where at least part of its population eats two breakfasts—one at sunrise before going to bed, and another at sunset just after getting up.

Backward Glances

By A. W. Neville

In the days after he came to Paris in the Middle 'seventies, Charlie Chamberlain, who was the first telegraph operator here, says the wire tolls were pretty high. The Texas and Pacific railroad from the west stopped at Brookston, waiting for its promoters to raise more money after the crash of 1873, and the east part was somewhere between Paris and Texarkana. The wire along this line was owned by the Texas and Pacific railroad, and messages to the north and east were transferred to the Western Union at Texarkana or Sherman.

The rate for a ten-word message from Sherman to New York was $3.50, Charlie says, and when the toll from Paris to Sherman, about half a dollar, was added it will be seen that few messages except those of immediate and vital importance, went from Paris to New York.

After the road was connected, which occurred on July 4, 1876, at Blossom, and was marked by a big jollification and picnic, the line was sold to the Western Union, and for several years that company had a monopoly of the telegraph business here. The rates were somewhat reduced, though they were still plenty high, and I can recall that when the average family received a telegram they feared before it was opened that it told of the death of a relative, or of a serious illness or accident. It was too expensive to use for ordinary affairs.

About 1884 the B. and O. ran a line into Paris, along the Texas and Pacific right of way, which the Western Union did everything it could to prevent, and an office was opened upstairs in the building where is now the Norment building at the southeast corner of Clarksville and South Main streets. It was in charge of Mike W. Connolly, a brilliant fellow who some years afterwards became editor of the Memphis Appeal and made more than a local reputation as an editorial writer, and a scrapper when need arose, as it frequently did in those days. The competition brought down telegraph tolls.

The greatest blow ever dealt the telegraph company was the invention of the telephone and so soon as it got long distance lines built the telegraph income began to wane. W. G. Stannard, who was for years the local manager for the Western Union here, once told me that his company's receipts in Paris for a year were little more than he had known them to be in one month when the telegraph was the only means of quick communication. The monthly bill of Martin, Wise and Fitzhugh, a cotton buying firm, alone was greater then in one month than his total business in a month after the telephone made itself felt.

Dr. Clendening

In England this time of year less than a century ago you could have seen occasionally along the highways a mother and father passing a little baby or child from the arms of one to the other through the cleft of an ash tree. This was supposed to cure the rickets.

This is the time of year when rickets is most frequently observed, and if one could just find a cleft ash tree everything was supposed to be all right. There was a famous one at the edge of Shirley Heath, near Birmingham, "Thomas Chillingworth," according to J. G. Frazer in "The Golden Bough", "son of the owner of an adjoining farm, now about thirty-four, was, when an infant passed through a similar tree, now perfectly sound, which he preserves with so much care that he will not suffer a single branch to be touched, for it is believed the life of the patient depends on the life of the tree."

If no cleft ash tree could be found, one was made. A young ash sapling was split. The baby had to be naked and was passed through the cleft at sunrise three times or three times three and against the direction of the sun. The tree was then bound up and the split plastered with mud and clay. If the tree healed up it was a sign that the child would be cured, and if the tree died so would the child.

Nowadays, of course in the same time of year we not only cure rickets but prevent it by giving cod liver oil or some form of vitamin D. And few cases are now allowed to go on to the state of deformities of the legs or arms. How great an improvement this is over the older days can be seen when it is realized that the superstition concerning the cleft ash applied only to deformed children—that is a late stage of rickets.

Superstitions still go on, of course but when we find an efficient remedy for the diseases the superstitious act was supposed to r they do not have much cha survival except in the most ant districts. UNHAPPY PARENTS

By Mrs. Agnes Lync

Of all the afflictions which befall a child the most insidious and least understood is that of being made to pay the penalty of the unsatisfied love of one parent for another.

Lucy at the age of six had become such a problem at home that her mother is wondering whether it would not be best to send her away to boarding school where, she grimly hopes, "they will train her."

At home Lucy is willfully disobedient and completely unmanageable. She opposes everything her mother wants her to do and positively enjoys making her father angry. When she is punished in her father's presence she makes a scene and refuses to become quiet until he takes her in his arms, bathes her face and talks soothingly to her. At night she often wakes up screaming and crying that she is afraid of the dark, demanding that her father come and lie down in bed beside her.

There is really nothing wrong with Lucy, but there is a good deal wrong with her parents. Her misbehavior is just one of the consequences of the mutual unhappiness. Her mother craves from father more love and atte than she receives.

Her own unhappiness leave tle room for love and inter her child. She treats her short tempered irritability an ter lack of sympathy and standing. Indeed her feelin more akin to hate than love she senses that her child is rival for the affections of the she married. This unmaterna titude only further estrange from her husband. WASHINGTON — the supreme court of the United States has just finished its first full session since President Hoover appointed Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts to the bench, and the plain truth is that some of the conservative "interests" seem rather upset by the general tenor of its altered personnel's decisions.

It certainly cannot be called radical in its judgment even yet; nevertheless the consensus among lawyers of long experience is that it is more liberal than it was.

Press comment suggests that popular attention has been attracted predominantly by the tribunal's ruling in the Yetta Stromberg case, appealed from California, in which legislatures are denied the right to penalize legitimate opposition to organized government—as several states have been trying to do recently under anti-red statutes of various sorts.

BUSINESS MEN, however, legal authorities predict, will be more concerned in the long run in the court's latest findings upholding such legislation as Indiana's tax upon chain enterprises and Ohio's upon the interstate transmission of gas and electric power.

The constitutionality of the Hoosier effort in behalf of independent merchandising and the Buckeye method of attempting to restrict the power industry having been established, immediate moves in the same direction at other state capitals naturally are foreseen, with every prospect of far-reaching commercial and political consequences.

The scattering of the campaign thither and yon, far afield from Washington, where it is easy to watch and oppose with a minimum of exertion, is not the least of the anticipated effects of the sup court's two decisions which conservatives mention in tones of xiety and progressives delight

Athletics Rally To Trim Yankees

PHILADELPHIA, May 27. (AP)—Roy Sherid's relief pitching was wild and ineffective Wednesday and the Athletics pounded out a late 8 to 5 victory over the New York Yankees, their fourth in five games here.

Having scored three runs off Earnshaw in their half of the eighth, the Yanks were leading when Sherid took over the mound duties in the last half of the round. Before he could retire a man the Athletics had scored twice on two walks and hits by Cochrane, Simmons and Miller.

Harridge Named As President Of American League

CLEVELAND, May 27. (AP)—William Harridge, who never played a game of professional baseball in his life, Wednesday was elected to lead the American league as president for a full term of three years, succeeding the late Ernest S. Barnard.

His election to the post in which he has backstopped as private secretary during the administration of former President Barnard for a total of 20 years, was unanimous. Harridge will also act as treasurer and secretary of the league.

He will probably receive approximately $25,000 a year.

It was decided to give the pitchers the benefit of a resin bag again. Some of the club owners felt that the young pitchers in the league were accustomed to a resin bag and could not get along without one.

Sports And Cats Split Twin Tilt

SHREVEPORT, May 27. (AP)—A big first inning when Hap Collard was routed before two men had been retired gave the Sports a victory in the first game of the series with Fort Worth, 8-2. Moulton for the Sports was constantly in trouble and in the fifth Cox hit a homer with a man on base.

The Cats had a field day Wednesday night as they handed the Sports an 18-3 defeat to make up for the beating they received in the afternoon game. Three hurlers, Wood, Erickson and Pate were slaughtered by the Texans.

Steers, Spudders Divide Twin Bill

WICHITA FALLS, May 27. (AP)—The Spudders and the Dallas Steers divided a double header here Wednesday, Wichita Falls staving off a late inning rally to nose out the Herd in the first 8 to 7, and presenting the Steers with the second game, on Taylor's issuance of two passes and a wild heave by Garms, Spudder third baseman, in the second inning of the nightcap. Taylor pitched a three hit game.

BUCS END LONG LOSING STREAK; DOWN BUFFS 6-5

Balew's Home Run In the Ninth Gives Galveston Clan Decision

GALVESTON, May 27 (AP)—Harvey Ballew's home run after Houston had tied the score in their half of the ninth gave the Buccaneers a 6 to 5 triumph over their opponents from across the bayou Wednesday and incidentally smashed a long losing streak of ten games.

The Buccaneers pounded Elmer Hansen from the box to grab an early lead but Houston countered by driving Dumovich to the showers in the eighth, Hock's double producing three runs. Successive two baggers by Peel and Medwick tied the score in the ninth but Speer cut off a run when he threw out Medwick trying to tally on Sturdy's single. Then in the Buc half Ballew led off with a home run.

Cubs Take Third From Cincy Reds

CINCINNATI, May 27. (AP)—Cincinnati pitchers were wild and hit hard Wednesday by the Cubs who won 8 to 4, capturing their third straight game of the series. In the second inning Biff Wysong issued four passes forcing in the first Chicago run. Bush also was pounded freely but kept the Reds eleven hits scattered.

THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER ✦ Author of . . . "Dad's Girl", "Loretta", Etc.

Copyright 1931, Central Press Association

CHAPTER 20.

Mary had dinner with Frazier at his hotel the next evening. He was charmingly and informally attentive to her. He called at the office for her and made it a point to let Foster know he was taking her out.

Mary had explained the situation to her employer earlier in the day.

"Please understand that I intend no disloyalty to Dick. I am doing it to humor Mr. Frazier in the interest of the business. I would not feel justified even in that, if it were not that he is going away for awhile."

"Foster nodded and said gratefully, "I appreciate your loyalty more than I can tell you, Miss Vaughn. Baldwin would understand perfectly. He knows the ethics of business."

They lingered over dinner. The orchestra played that dreamy, stirring classic "Amores," and Mary wished achingly that Dick were there with her. Then the selection from "Irene." The melody was set to the words in her heart.

"There's a castle in our dreams
Where we place our hopes and all our fancies"—

while she wondered where Dick was tonight, what he was doing, whose eyes were watching his dear, expressive face and looking into the smiling eyes.

Frazier's voice aroused her. He looked at her queerly.

"Where have you been, my dear? I spoke to you twice and you looked as if you were miles away."

"I was," she laughed lightly and thought, "somewhere in Philadelphia with my beloved."

"You are a dreamer of dreams, aren't you, ma chere? The music haunts you, I can see. You would like to travel, seek adventure. Yet you make that sordid daily round from across the river to a close little room that is lost in a great tower of offices. Why?"

"Because some omnipotent power ordained that I should be one of those who toil. Besides, you may not know it, but there is adventure in the subway, on the ferries, on the commuter's express—everywhere there is adventure, if you look for it with a discerning eye."

His shoulders moved deprecatingly.

"Oh, yes, but I refer to high adventure, romance, strange and distant ports of haunting beauty, intriguing mystery, glamour—you don't find those on the prosaic Hudson ferries."

"We who ride them every day seldom look for such marvelous things. But so are the islands and the black gondolas of Venice, the shrilling souls of Morocco, the caravans of the desert and the glittering mosques of the Orient as prosaic to their native inhabitant. Those same people might find a Hudson ferry trip an adventure."

"Barely possible. But the world offers so much—why not take it?"

"Only for a price. The world offers beauty, pleasure, adventure just as the shops offer beauty, luxury and comfort—at a price, usually at exorbitant prices. Most of us haven't that price. I do expect to have some of it, though, sometime."

"Why wait? Come with me to Florida. We needn't come back in a month. Take a year. Palm Beach, Havana, Paris, wherever you wish."

She was astonished at his seriousness. Could he possibly mean that? And did he suppose that she would consider it? Mary was no novice, even if she had been quite a recluse so far as "stepping out" was concerned. He was not planning a world tour for her such as Dick had talked about, gaily, vaguely.

"I couldn't think of it," she said, with emphasis that explained nothing but was as definite and comprehensive as it was enigmatic.

"I'm sorry," he accepted the cryptic ultimatum with genuine regret. "Traveling alone is no sport. It takes a good little pal to go adventuring. You would be a delightful little traveling companion, ma chere."

That was what Dick had said, she reflected. There was something ironical about this sudden flood of compliments, proposals and invitations. Had she, by some magic, been transformed from an ugly duckling into a swan? She caught her reflection in the mirrored wall opposite, and had to admit to herself that she was decidedly not ugly. She knew that clothes and surroundings had much to do with a smart appearance. And that poise, chic and charm are most important factors. If these gave her Dick and his love, she was grateful. Otherwise they counted as nothing to her.

They attended a dazzling, twinkling musical revue. Frazier sat close to her with his shoulder touching hers and talked to her a great deal in a low, confident tone. But he did not ask her again to go south with him . . . And there was something about him that Mary liked, in spite of herself. He had a droll sense of humor that appeared at the most unexpected times.

Once, after a long silence when they both had been absorbed in the act, he turned abruptly to her and said, "Hello, dear." His face bent close to hers and in an affectionate manner.

Her own spontaneous wit sparkled. With surprise, she answered him, "Oh, hello. Are you still here?"

He chuckled with appreciation. "Lord, what a pal you could be," he murmured close to her ear. And he thought, "No hurry."

Riding down the avenue with him in the big, glittering car, with Jenks at the wheel, and in the after-theater parade, Mary felt like a queen in a state procession. All this could be had for the taking—for awhile. She shivered, scarcely knowing why.

She thought, "My last time with him," and her heart echoed joyously, "My last time with him."

But he said, holding her hand, "This is only the beginning for us, you know. It will be something just to remember. I wonder—shall you have memories, Mary?"

"One always has memories when there is nothing else," she evaded.

"But that isn't all. I shall remember you, but I shall anticipate much more. When I return, there will be many happy times for us together."

"One can never plan too surely.

"Hello, dear."

He didn't quite believe in them himself—only momentarily, she guessed.

Mary also knew that this wasn't the same thing as the young boys rushing one girl for a few months, saying nonsensical, lavish things, petting and doring—then turning to another girl for another season. With them it was an innovation, a youthful affliction from which most of them would soon recover, finding the right remedy—the girl that each of them loved. A few of them would drift on into bachelorhood like Martin and their habits would become chronic. Perhaps they were to be pitied—these free men who counted themselves fortunate. Always seeking, searching—never finding. They were on a quest that never ended, never knew content and cofidet possession.

So he left Mary's life, forever! so she thought.

Bonnie was curled up on the couch in the living room, and asleep, when Mary let herself in. It was evident that Bonnie had not been out for the evening. Her soiled blue frock and a run in her stocking were significant of one of Bonnie's frequent attacks of despondency. When Bonnie wasn't sitting on top of the world, she was usually crouched beneath it. Which was about half the time. For a whole day, sometimes more, she would sulk and brood and pity herself; thinking of the things she didn't have and wanted, of the things she couldn't do and wanted to do, of her "bad breaks," "her luck." She was irritable, inconsiderate and rude, at these times.

Yet she could be the most adorable and provocative creature imaginable if she chose, and if she thought it was to her advantage. She could practically take the last and best thing you had in the world and make you think you wanted her to have it—if it was anything she wanted. She had done that to Mary many a time.

Old Salt, New Ship

Appointed to command of the new Dollar Liner "President Hoover," the largest merchant ship ever built in America, Captain Fred E. Anderson (above), of Boston, Mass., is a real son of Neptune, having traveled over a million miles over the seas of the world in his 40 years on the water. The new liner will start on its maiden voyage from New York, May 6th.

Besides you may find a dusky senorita on a balcony in the southland to detain you."

He laughed. "That is so easy to imagine, but Spanish music is like many other beautiful illusions—it promises more than it gives. But I shall have more—a memory to cherish and a dream to return to."

Mary let him talk. She knew that she was not unfairly holding out a promise to him she could not keep. Words like these were very easy for a man like Martin to say. Perhaps, he believed that he was serious; but so had he often believed that, and no doubt had persuaded many girls to believe it. He thrived on romantic words and promises, lightly given, lightly accepted. It was his life, day.

BRIEFS About Town

Jas. M. Caviness who has been in New York for several days on business, left for home on Tuesday.

Drew Swearingen of Noble and Jack Rutherford and Quinn O'Connor of Petty were in Paris Wednesday on business.

J. V. Morgan, Ann Ware, Mary Gardner and Mrs. Charles McCleary of Honey Grove were in Paris Wednesday shopping.

City peace officers were called out to kill a dog that was having fits. It was thought that the dog was not mad.

Swimming season has opened for Paris people. Wednesday several cars with bathing suits hanging on the side were seen.

Mrs. Jewel Gregg Holmes is busily engaged in posting the city water works books this week making them ready for the new month.

Quite a number of fishing licenses for the season have been sold by the city secretary recently to Lamar county fishermen.

Examinations are practically over for the third term at the Paris Junior college. The last one will be given Thursday.

A group of friends from Paris will spend the day Thursday over the plantation of Joe Gose on the river in Fannin county. They will be guests of Mr. Gose for the day.

U. S. Logue, salesman for Paris Candy company, this week has been confined to his home, 91 South Twenty-fifth street, by an attack of influenza.

Advising tax payers of changes the board of equalization made in their tax rendition and the reasons for doing so, the city secretary is having letters sent out to all tax payers concerned.

Painted straw sombreros are to be worn again this season, fashion decrees for some Parisarea people have donned them and are out in the sun apparently not minding its rays at all.

Tourists from every section of the country are making their annual pilgrimage through Paris. Wednesday cars from numerous states, including one from Ontario, were seen on the Plaza.

Sister Genevive formerly of St. Joseph's Infirmary arrived in Paris Tuesday from Marshall for a few days here. Sister Genevive is well known to Paris people.

Harry Cox, member of the Paris Morning News staff, and his family have returned from a short vacation spent in Mineral Wells. Mr. Cox left last Thursday and returned Wednesday.

New officers of the Paris Rotary club will take office at the noon luncheon Friday. Due to the retiring president leaving for the International Conference in Vienna early, the new officers will serve for thirteen months.

Miss Roberta Sandsberry, Miss McCain Igo and Miss Glenna Rush will leave next week for Denton where they will attend the summer session of C. I. A. All are teachers in the Paris City schools.

Miss Lida Cooper will leave Thursday for College Station to attend a conference of the home demonstration agents of this state. Miss Cooper will also atend the graduation of he A. and M. college whre her broher will receive his degree.

Tom Fisher and Earle W. Guthrie have opened a new real estate and insurance business, 403 Liberty National Bank building. They have been appointed district agents for five counties for the Acme Insurance Co., and will also do a general real estate business.

With the hot weather the drug stores and fountains of Paris have put on a campaign to use more tempting signs on their show windows indicating new kinds of drinks, it seems. Everything from Jumbos on down to bargain soda pops are advertised.

The last examinations were given to students in the Paris ward school Wednesday. The rest of the week will be spent in final check up of books and the distributing of report cards to the students.

The campus at the back of the Paris high school which was started a few years ago has developed into one of the show places of the city. In a few more years this campus will have no equal in this section of the state, authorities say.

A flower garden right in the center of business activity is that of Dr. Wilson which is just behind the old Paul Building on the corner of Rusk and Kaufman streets. All varieties of flowers seem to be growing in this garden.

Jas. A. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank and recently elected president of the Texas Cotton Co-Operative Association has been ill for the past few days at his home, 29 East Sherman street.

A large number of the board of directors of the Lamar County Chamber of Commerce and other business men will attend the East Texas Chamber of Commerce district meeting Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Bonham. The board will therefore not hold its regular meeting Thursday.

Filling stations and service stations of Paris are being questioned countless times each day concerning the roads in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma. Most of these inquiries are coming from people who plan to drive to resorts for their vacations.

Tuesday the home demonstration agent for Lamar county, Miss Lida Cooper, went to Forrest Hill where she held a canning demonstration for the women of that community. The non-club women were taught how to use a pressure canner which enables them to can enough food to last through the winter months. About 19 women were present at the demonstration.

Bois d' arc posts are to be placed every few feet out on the picnic grounds at Lake Crook, it was announced at the mayors office Wednesday. The reason for placing these posts on the grounds is to enable people to enjoy the grounds without danger to their children from passing cars and also to give the grass a chance to grow. Plenty of parking space other than where the tiles are is available on these grounds.

LAMAR COUNTY GIRL WINS SCHOOL HONORS

CAVINESS, May 27.—Miss Verna Burton, daughter of Mrs. A. J. Burton of the Davis community, has returned from Burkburnett, where she attended high school the past year. She was valedictorian of her class and won two scholarships. She also won an honor pin given by the Rotary club of that city for having made the honor roll the entire year.

SATURDAY BOY SCOUT DAY AT JUNIOR GOLF COURSE

Throughout the day and evening of Saturday, the Boy Scouts will receive part of the recipts at the Junior Golf Course on North 27th street, which money will apply toward their camp fund. All of their friends are cordially invited to play on this beautiful course on Saturday and thus help the camp fund grow.

Lovers of the sport like to play at this delightful course, where there is an abundance of shady space, both to play and watch the others play. There is ample parking space to accommodate a large crowd.

Mr. Cummings is very happy to divide the recipts with the Scouts, and will be more than pleased to see them realize something out of the day. Come out and play!

CAMP NOTES

Dr. J. W. Haden, chairman of camping for the Lone Star Area Council is going with Scout Executive Frank Fuller throughout all of the council this week, in the interest of the Summer Training Camp which opens June 15th at Camp Clark. Dr. Haden has served many years in this capacity, and is doing his bit in making each summer's camp better than the previous ones. He is a practical camper, and lends much to the atmosphere of Camp Clark.

A new boat is being built for use at Camp Clark during the summer camp by Scoutmaster Walter Williamson. Scoutmaster Williamson is a wizard with tools, and is a devotee of boating. The Boy Scouts always have a boat at hand while swimming, in addition to the regular water front men on shore.

Registrations for this summer's camp are coming in fast now. All scouts have been informed through their meetings that they may bring half of the fee with them the day they enter camp if the other half has been paid in advance to the council office. Each week's list of campers is made up of the first fifty boys who send in half or more of their fees.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 27, (AP)—Despite an early upturn in cotton Wednesday, new low records for the season were established. There were partial rallies toward the close. The final price of July was 8.59, a net decline of 3 points while the general market closed steady at 3 to 8 points net lower.

Liverpool cables were steadier than expected.

Favorable weather conditions over the belt so far this week served to offset a rather unfavorable weekly weather and crop bulletin and in absence of any distinctly constructive features, the sinking tendency of stock values was apparently more impressive than optimistic expressions by some leaders in the trade over business prospects.

The late tone was steady with December at the last selling at 9.13 or a loss of 5 points.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined early under liquidation but rallied on trade buying. The Manchester market was reported closed and will not resume operations until Monday of next week.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 27. —(AP) Trading in cotton was active here Wednesday and prices after an early gain of fully three-quarters of a dollar a bale later slumped practically a dollar and a half a bale to new lows for the day and season.

Prices closed steady at net declines for the day of 5 to 10 points.

Liverpool came in 6 to 8 penny points better than due and private cables stated that shorts covered and the trade called. Manchester cabled that the market there will be closed until Monday next.

July closed at 8.58, down 5 points net for the day, Oct. at 8.91 down 9 points net and December at 9.12, down 10 points net.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, May 27, (AP)—Grains went downhill with the stock market Wednesday. Timely generous moisture relief in South Dakota and scattered showers in Montana and North Dakota, where drouth complaints have been numerous, tended also to slacken demand for wheat. Operating further to weaken grain was word that reapers had started cutting the new 1931 wheat crop in South Texas, and that the harvest was expected to be general throughout Central Texas June 5 to June 15.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1 1-4 cents lower, corn unchanged to 3-4 off, oats 1-8 to 1-2 down, and provisions showing 7 to 37 cents fall.

Announcement that the world's available supply of wheat totaled 417,000,000 bushels against 324,000,000 a year ago was commented on as accounting for the indifferent attitude of overseas importers.

Corn and oats inclined downward almost from the start, largely as a result of warmer weather favorable for corn planting and cultivating.

Closing indemnities, wheat, May 83 7-8, offers; July 58 1-8 to 1-4, 60; Sept. 57 3-4, 59 3-8 to 1-2; Dec. 61 62 7-8 to 63. Corn, July 54 3-4 to 7-8, 56 3-8 to 1-2; Sept. 51 3-4, 53 1-4; Dec. 46 3-8, 47 3-8.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, May 27, (AP)—Reassuring statements from sources high in business, finance and government fell on deaf ears in the stock market Wednesday.

Whatever stimulus prices had received from the stock exchange "bear hunt" petered out in another wave of selling which broke through previous resistance levels in all but a few pivotal shares.

The market rallied in the last quarter hour as shorts who had sold on an unfavorable batch of midweek trade statistics made some purchases, but a large majority of issues closed lower, the average loss being a about a point. Sales totaled 2,590,000 shares.

U. S. Steel common had an extreme drop of 4 5-8 to 90 5-8, a new low, before rallying to close at 92 1-4, off 3 points.

The April railroad earnings make a poor comparison not only with a year ago but with March, for the loss in income last month reached a larger percentage than in the immediately preceding period. The market also attributed weakness of the rail issues to the interstate commerce commission's refusal to take the initiative in the freight rate increase. This, of course, is not an intimation of the commission's attitude toward a rise, but the market appeared to take a bearish view of the situation. Many of the losses in earlier stocks were substantially reduced.

Railroad bonds went through one of their recurrent spells of weakness, although the investment market generally was lower.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, May 27. —(AP) Hogs, 700; market 10 to 20 lower; rail and truck top 5.90; rail hogs 5.90; packing sows weak to 25 lower; 4.50 to 4.75.

Cattle, 2,200; market dull; plain and common grassers 3.75 to 5.25; on order; strong weight fed cattle 5.00 to 5.25; good fat cows 3.25 to 3.50; butcher sorts around 3.00; low cutters 1.75 to 2.00; 2 loads good fed yearlings and twos unsold; calf quality mostly plain and common, good heavy slaughter calves 5.25 to 5.50.

Sheep, 15,000; good killing classes fairly active, fully steady; spring lambs 7.00 to 7.50; shorn fat lambs and yearlings 6.00 to 6.50; 2 year old fat wethers 4.25; aged fat wethers 2.50.

Pair Released To Out-Of-Town Peace Officers

Held for investigation in connection with the peddling of narcotics in Paris, two men and two women Wednesday afternoon were released to out-of-town authorities, according to Gus Cothran, chief of police.

The quartet was arrested by city patrolmen late Wednesday morning. Two men and one of the women were held in the county jail, while the second woman was placed in the city jail.

The two couples were said to have arrived in Paris Tuesday night in an automobile which bore a Texas license. They claimed Houston and Ft. Smith as their homes.

Addition Is Made At Local Golf Course

Golfers who haven't time to play nine holes or who wish to play at night can now make all approach shots they desire. C. A. Berkshire, who owns the Paris Miniature Golf Course, located on South Thirtieth and Hearon streets, has installed a pitching ring.

The ring offers golfers who do not care for miniature golf the opportunity to practice approach shots with their niblicks, mashie niblicks or mashies. He says that there will be plenty of light and room for golfers to practice to their hearts content.

To Receive Report Cards

Professor A. H. Chamness announced Wednesday afternoon that all students of Paris schools should go to their respective schools Friday morning at the regular hour in order to receive report cards and book cards.

Autoquip Holds Opening Night

The Autoquip company gave an opening Wednesday night that was well attended by an enthusiastic crowd of automobile service and equipment men. The Autoquip company has moved into their new station at the corner of Twenty-second street and Lamar avenue.

The features of the formal opening were the speeches and demonstrations of the various concerns which feature tools and automobile supplies.

Bob McCord of Dallas, district sales manager for the Pedrick Piston Ring company, gave a talk on piston rings and then gave a moving picture tour through the Pedrick factory which he explained as it was flashed on the screen.

Men from important companies which the Autoquip represents were present at the opening. Mr. Crutchfield, manager of the Crawford Manufacturing company of Dallas, Ira J. Kennedy of Dallas district manager for the United Motors company, H. T. Leach of the Thermoid Rubber company was there and A. A. Ways of Dallas as were W. C. Brunson of Lancaster, Penn., representing the K. D. Manufacturing company.
